The human need for safety is greater than our need for freedom or power; this is the foundation of modern life in the developed world. On the other hand, we believe that an open-to-all-comers style of government will lead us to more sustainable, equitable, and equitable prosperity. Together, these beliefs provide the foundation for a vision of a more just, sustainable and equitable society.Q: Sort the values in a data table with vbscript I have a script that I am using to sort a values that are in a variable named dt. I run the script a few times. All the data will show the values in the same order after running the script and saving it. But when I run this script again, the values are showing in different order. I have an explanation for this. Case 1: The values that have been sorted is in an array of size(20) with same value. Case 2: The values that have been sorted is in an array of size(20) with different value. Case 1: If I run the script, the array will be having the same order of values. So, it will sort the values of the array. Case 2: If I run the script, the values will be in different order. So, it will sort the values with unique values. Here is my code: Const iNumRegions = 7 Dim aRegions() aRegions = Array(iNumRegions) Dim aRegionValue Set oRegions = CreateObject("Scripting.Dictionary") iNumRecords = Dt.Rows.Count For i = 0 To iNumRegions - 1 'Get the datagrid row data aRegionValue = Dt.Rows(iNumRecords).Item(iNumRegions) Set oRegions(i) = aRegionValue Next i 'Restore the datagrid row data 'Find the datagrid row that is selected Set rSelected = .SelectedItems.Item(1) iRow = rSelected.Row
