CATEGORY TAGS Comments A private eye in trouble? Consistent with traditional puzzle-solving and creative reasoning by visual prompts, three people of different ages find solutions to problems with objects, psychology, and palates. Plenty of pictures and a wide variety of experiences allow children to enter into games, join in conversation, and try things out.

This fun book is perfect for introducing young children to the value of a wonder-filled mind. The puzzle page demonstrates a pleasing range of ways to stimulate a child's mind and a parent's imagination. 'My Dog Lickety split' is a funny, silly picture book that teaches children about copyright. It tells the story of a father who buys his son a dog which he insists he loves. He claims that he wants to teach his son a lesson and that the dog needs to be punished. One day, the father is walking along and comes upon a thief who's been in his house. The thief asks for something to eat. The father makes up a story of a dog being injured in a fight, which the father claims his dog won. This relieves his conscience, and his son, as they put the thief in the attic. At bedtime, the father tells his son that the thief has been punished, and that he had nothing to do with it. The next morning, the father is disappointed to find that his son did not find the thief. In the evening, the father tells his son that the dog has been punished and that he does have something to do with it. The next day, the father heads to the forest. He wants to show his son that, even though the dog had been punished, he did not have a hand in it. He finds a robber and turns the robber into his friend, a farmer. When the father returns home, his son asks if the thief has been punished. The father replies, 'Well, you'll have to wait and see.' My son tells me that he doesn't know what that means. It means, 'Wait and see if the thief is punished.' 'Yeey, terrific!' says the father. The Story of Fire is an exciting and educational follow-up to A Dog Is a Lucky Cat, beautifully illustrated with photographs and collages by
